

Statement Regarding Board Approved Policies

As of September 1, 2001, the existing Davis Applied Technology Center will become an institution within and subject to the authority of the Utah State System of Higher Education. All current valid institutional authority (e.g. superintendent's authority, Center policies and procedures) will continue to be valid and should be followed until further notice, unless such authority is inconsistent with the Higher Education legal authority, Board of Regents' directives or otherwise clearly inappropriate or not practicable.

Following currently existing policies is not intended to bind or obligate the future Davis Applied Technology College Board in approval or revision of policies at future times.

The DATC Administration is directed to review and revise policies for consideration and approval by the new Davis Applied Technology College Board in order to bring local policies in line with applicable Higher Education directives.